L'Hermitage

Domaine Jean-Louis Chave

Two thousand fourteen marks the 22nd vintage that Jean-Louis has been at the helm of this iconic domain, which owns almost 14 hectares of vineyards on the Hermitage hill--or almost 11% of the total appellation--split between about two-thirds syrah and one-third marsanne and roussanne

- Josh Reynolds, Vinousmedia.com

"I have had the privilege of tasting at this brilliant family-owned estate for over 30 years. During that time, I have seen first-hand the glory of a true evolution from father Gerard Chave to his son, Jean-Louis, and of course, the Chave family has been doing this since 1472. It is one of those small but world-class wine enterprises that is truly inspiring. Tasting through the different vineyards before their newest red and white Hermitages are blended is an education in the different terroirs of that famous dome of largely decomposed granite mixed with gravel and clay.

- Robert Parker, The Wine Advocate
